

General Data Protection Regulation

REFRESHING LAW

Down to Earth

Passionate about workplace training

Delivered by Anna Denton-Jones a solicitor who is passionate about how organisations can improve their data protection practice in the real world. In this session Anna will take you through how data protection practice within HR is going to need to change as a result of the General Data Protection Regulation becoming law next year. Get prepared!

21st November 2017 – 9.30 am to 12.30 pm. Cardiff Business Technology Centre £150 + VAT.

The course will cover:-

- Why this matters
- Busting the jargon and understanding the ethos behind the legislation
- Data Subject Rights
 - The right to be informed
 - The right of access
 - The right to rectification
 - The right to erasure
 - The right to restrict processing
 - The right to data portability
 - The right to object
 - Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling.
- Consent – what it means in practice and changes HR needs to make
- Risk assessments – when will you have to do them?
- Action list – what you need to do.

There will be a full opportunity for any questions any delegates have to be answered.

*All bookings will be invoiced at the time of booking. Anyone cancelling within 72 hours of the event may send along a substitute delegate but will still be charged in full. Anyone cancelling before that will be charged a £25 + VAT fee.

A delegate that attended the last event on GDPR said they "found it very helpful and it's given us a good understanding of the key principles. Relating it back to what we do in the office was really useful - we had the right context for the discussions".
